

HUERTA PRESSES WOMEN TO SERVE

Men and Women Conscripted Generally for Duty in the Mexican Army

ASK HELP FROM UNITED STATES

Apply to O'Shaughnessy and Other Diplomats in Mexico to Save Them from "Press-gangs"

(By a United Press Staff Correspondent.)

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 24.—Mexicans in great numbers, mostly women, today appealed to Nelson O'Shaughnessy, charge d'affaires, at the American embassy to save them from General Huerta's "press-gangs," conscripting them for army service.

One aged woman with her two daughters, were selected for army commissary duty and asked O'Shaughnessy to help them. Huerta's officers are conscripting women and men generally for army duty, forcing the women to work in the commissary department as nurse and cooks.

"I cannot help them," O'Shaughnessy told the United Press, and he gave the same answer to all applicants.

All the other embassies and legations received similar appeals, and the same answer was given.

Ten small battles between federals and constitutionalists were reported today in various parts of the interior, all of them inconsequential.

The new congress was scheduled to meet again late this afternoon and it was expected that the chamber of deputies would take up the election of last month. They could either declare the election void because a constitutional majority of votes was not cast, in which event General Huerta would hold on as ad interim president.

Or they could declare the election binding, in which case they would declare Huerta and General Blanes elected.

Braves Crowd at Bull Fight

The people today talked enthusiastically of Huerta's attendance at yesterday's bull fight, as a master stroke to demonstrate his fearlessness. Accompanied by only two men of his staff, and wearing the conspicuous grey slouch hat that has become habitual with him, Huerta crowded his way into the stand, along with 20,000 people. For two hours he sat with his back to the crowd, an easy mark for any assassin. As he departed, shortly before the end of the entertainment, Huerta was loudly cheered.

Expect Battle Near Juarez

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 24.—With the rebel and federal armies massed south of Juarez, the general belief here today was that the expected battle could not long be delayed. General Orozco and Salazar, leaders of the federals, have evidently been maneuvering to draw Villa outside of the city to a point where the battle ground would be more favorable to the Huertistas.

The main body of General Villa's troops are about twenty-five miles below Juarez, near Sierra Blanca. Villa himself has been moving back and forth between this camp and Juarez since Saturday.

Villa thinks the federals are out of supplies and must fight. The contending forces are said to number about 10,000, six thousand rebels and about four thousand to five thousand federals.

WARRANTS FOR EARL

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Armed with warrants charging them with being fugitives from justice, and with kidnapping, officers of this city and Boston were watching the ports today for the arrival of Ferdinand Pinney Earl, "champion affinity," and Miss Charlotte Herman, Earl's companion, who are sought by the federal government for kidnapping Earl's child by one of his former wives, are believed to have sailed either on the Marquette or Finland of the Red Star line.

DES MOINES SALOONS CLOSED

Meanwhile the temperance people will hold a rally tomorrow night at the auditorium to celebrate their victory.

LAUGHS AT PURSUERS

SALT LAKE, Utah, Nov. 24.—Police and posse men today headed for Toplioff, Utah, where they hope to intercept Ralph Lopez, Mexican, who slew four men Friday and whom they have been pursuing since. Lopez is a crack shot and has been amusing himself by shooting at the pursuers from ambush and then laughing at their discomfiture.

KILLS BROTHER IN HUNTING ACCIDENT

August Engaas Shoots His Brother Lothard when Weapon Is Accidentally Discharged

THREW A STICK AT BRUSH HEAP

Trigger Entangles in His Clothes at Twist of Body and Charge Enters Chest of Youth

(By a United Press Staff Correspondent.)

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 24.—August Engaas, 25, yesterday accidentally discharged his shot gun, and instantly killed his younger brother Lothard, 20, who was standing less than twenty feet away. The shot entered the younger man's chest and tore a huge wound. The tragedy took place near Holmen.

Both of the young men are nephews of A. Engaas, 1202 West avenue south, La Crosse. Mr. Engaas was notified of the accident late last night, and this morning left for Holmen.

August Engaas today laid the blame for the tragedy upon the fact that he was carrying an automatic shot gun. The safety had slipped off without his knowledge and the trigger caught in his clothing as his body twisted in hurling the stick at the brush heap. He was carrying the gun cradled in his left arm when it was discharged.

Henry Gundlach, Jr., 922 Jackson street, was a companion of the two on the hunt. He was standing at a little distance from the pair when the shot rang out. His story verifies that of August Engaas.

Gundlach had motored up to the Engaas farm in his machine, and when the younger of his companions was shot, he ran two miles to the farm house and came back in the automobile for the body. The two lifted the body of their companion into the machine, and made record time back to the house. As soon as they reached the farm, Gundlach went for a doctor at top speed. The physician was able to do nothing, however, the youth having been dead before he was lifted into the car.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed early this afternoon, and will be announced later.

AUTO BANDITS ROB

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 24.—A series of the boldest hold-ups recorded in the history of the local police department came at a late hour last night when two well dressed young men riding about town in a stolen automobile shot one man and robbed several others. The automobile was afterward found deserted in the outskirts of the city.

BIG LOBBY WILL FIGHT THE BILL

La Follette Predicts Hard and Corrupt Fight on His Seamen's Measure

(By a United Press Staff Correspondent.)

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 24.—"It will be the biggest and most corrupt lobby to defeat this seaman's bill that has been in Washington for years."

This statement was made by Senator La Follette here last night in an interview in discussing the fight being made to pass the seaman's bill through congress. When the measure came up in the senate, Senator La Follette introduced a substitute that finally passed by a large vote. He thinks that the bill will pass the house early at the next session, when opens December 2. The senator regards this achievement as next in importance to his railroad valuation bill passed at the last session.

Turning from a discussion of this measure, Senator La Follette said it would be impossible to pass the currency bill at this session. It will be disposed of early in the next session of congress, he thinks.

KAREL MAN MAY GET APPOINTMENT

Rumored that Hemmy Is to Be Named Internal Revenue Collector at Milwaukee

AYLWARD FOR THE U. S. SENATE

Claim Scouted by Many Progressives Who Claim He's Had His Share of Party Plums

Paul Hemmy for internal revenue collector for the eastern district of Wisconsin, is the latest "dope" of those who maintain the national administration is using patronage to smooth over difficulties between the standpat and progressive factions of Wisconsin democracy.

Hemmy was chairman of the democratic state central committee last year, having been chosen by Judge Karel.

With the announcement that the standpatters' demands were to be placated by the Hemmy appointment comes the rumor that John A. Aylward, Madison, present United States district attorney for the western district of Wisconsin, will be the candidate of the democrats for the senate.

The Aylward candidacy is scouted by many, in fact it was but recently that one prominent progressive democrat was credited with the assertion that "Aylward wants to run but the progressives won't let him."

The opposition to the Aylward candidacy is based on what is claimed to be the Madison attorney's tendency to "hog" everything in the way of reward his long affiliation with the party has thrown his way.

With the Hemmy appointment, it is claimed, goes a proviso that Mr. Hemmy refrain from active support of the Karel or Bolens factions in all coming state contests. With this string the appointment, it has been pointed out, will not go far towards welding the two factions.

ENGINE BLOWS UP

SHELBY JUNCTION, Ohio, Nov. 24.—Three trainmen were so severely scalded they may die, when a Big Four freight locomotive blew up near here today. The injured men are: George B. THEY REHEARSE THIS AFTERNOON

Following Rehearsal of Ceremony First Display of Bridal Gifts Is Made

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Their last day of "single blessedness," was spent today by Miss Jessie Wilson and Francis Bowes Sayre in a turmoil of eleventh hour preparations for the white house nuptials tomorrow.

Arrival of Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, the best man, Mr. Sylvester Beach, Princeton Presbyterian minister, who will "tie the knot," and the wedding ushers, with other guests, kept a stream of automobiles and carriages constantly before the white house portals.

At three o'clock this afternoon the wedding rehearsal was scheduled. Afterward the first display of the wedding gifts was to be given members of the bridal party and a few intimate friends of the president's family. In fact, all day today Miss Wilson held "open house" for her girl friends here, society buds and old acquaintances, giving them a glimpse of the two rooms which are required for display of the presents.

A dinner and dance for the entire bridal party tonight aboard the president's yacht, Mayflower, will round out the ante-nuptial festivities.

A small army of workmen invaded the east room today, putting on the final finishing touches. Flowers and other perishable decorations will not be installed until just a few hours before the ceremony tomorrow afternoon.

Plan Police Guard

Over 400 police, the capital's finest, and a half dozen secret operatives will handle the crowds both inside and outside the white house.

So far the young couple have managed to keep the itinerary of their honeymoon trip a dark secret. Not one of Miss Wilson's intimate friends has an idea of where Mr. and Mrs. Sayre will go or when they will leave.

FINISHING MESSAGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—President Wilson was placing the finishing touches on his message to congress today. He hoped to be able to send it to the printer tomorrow.

The president will read it in person to a joint session of the two houses. He said to callers today that he will consult the convenience of the leaders as to when it will suit them to listen to him. There may be a delay on account of the fact that the extra session will run into the regular term.

DECLARE WAR ON STORAGE FOODS

Government Starts Investigation and Housewives Take Action

WILL REFUSE TO USE MORE EGGS

Housewives Urged Not to Buy "Hen Fruit" Until Price Drops to 32 Cents

(By a United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Federal investigation of the alleged cold storage combine was formally ordered today by Attorney General McReynolds. He instructed employees of the bureau of information and district attorneys throughout the country to get complete figures bearing on the allegations that cold storage men are withholding eggs and other products from the market in an effort to boost prices.

"I want to see the inside of this thing," the attorney general declared.

McReynolds said he already has preliminary information showing some attempts to corner egg and vegetable prices, and information reached the department today showing that some dealers, apparently in fear of an investigation, had dropped egg rates.

The investigation started today will cover every large city in the United States and if evidence proves the statements already made to the attorney general, he will bring prosecutions both under the criminal provision of the pure food law and the interstate commerce law.

Ask Egg Boycott

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Mrs. Caroline Bley, president of the Chicago Clean Food club, announced today that she will send letters to every woman's organization in the city, asking them to enlist in the Clean Food club's campaign against the high price of eggs.

"We are appealing to every housewife in Chicago to quit using eggs until the price falls to 32 cents a dozen," said Mrs. Bley.

New Yorkers Act

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Vigorous local action was begun in New York today by officers and members of the National Housewives' league to back up a call for a national boycott against storage eggs, which is aimed to down the price of that commodity.

Formal notice of the boycott on eggs was sent out today to every branch in the 300 cities of the country in which the league is established.

Would Prevent by Law

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—A call to all citizens to operate with him in his attack on cold storage "trust" which he holds responsible for the present extortionate prices in eggs, butter and meats, was issued today by Representative McKellar of Tennessee.

McKellar's remedy for cornering of the egg market is a law which will prohibit the holding of food products in cold storage for a longer period than ninety days.

May Investigate Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 24.—Government officials here today professed ignorance as to whether agents of the department of justice have been touring through the vast dairying districts of Wisconsin in search of evidence for the suit ordered today by the federal attorney general against the alleged cold storage combine. It was thought here that owing to the large dairying interests in Wisconsin this state would be among the first investigated by the department.

CONFESSES KILLING MARSHALL FIELD, JR.

Los Angeles Woman Admits Mysterious Murder and Then Takes Brace and Denies It

FIRST STORY TOLD OF FIGHT

Had Tussle with Field in Notorious Everly Club and Shot Him with Own Gun

(By a United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 24.—After confessing that she was the woman who shot and killed Reese Prosser, son of the Cleveland millionaire coal man, on a train in Montana, while going from Seattle to the east, Mrs. Vera Scott, the "woman of mystery," now in the city jail on a charge of extorting money from prominent Los Angeles and Pasadena business men, then made an even more sensational confession when she declared that she had murdered Marshall Field, Jr., in the Everly club in Chicago.

Mrs. Scott today changed her mind and not only denied the killing, but denied that she had ever said she did it.

The woman's change came after she had a rest and had recovered from her state of collapse.

"What will you do if you are extradited to Chicago?" the police asked her.

"They don't dare extradite me," she replied. "If I went there, I would tell stories about other prominent Chicagoans that would make their hair bristle."

Says Field Insulted Her

"Two days after I met Field at the annex," said Mrs. Scott Saturday, "he asked me to go to a party with him. I went to the Everly club, where there was a large party of people. I went under the name of Vera Le Roy. For a time we sat around drinking and talking and then Field asked me to go to a room. When we reached the room Field commenced to annoy me and I began fighting him, as I was not used to that kind of treatment."

Shot With Own Weapon

"Suddenly, in the tussle, I fell against his clothes and, finding a revolver in a pocket, I grabbed it out and shot him. Just as I shot, Emma Everly, one of the sisters, entered the room and was a witness to the affair."

"Early next morning," she continued, "Marshall Field, the father, came to me and offered $5,000 if I would leave the country, and told me that I would never be arrested if I forgot what happened the night before. This I consented to do, and a few days later I left for the orient, by the way of San Francisco."

Chicago Police Quiet

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—The Chicago police this afternoon declared they had received no telegram or other "official" advice from Los Angeles, regarding the statement of Mrs. Vera Scott that she shot and killed Marshall Field, Jr., in Chicago several years ago, and said that no investigation was being made here.

Following the death of Field, Lieutenant Enright, in his official report, described the shooting as accidental.

RAIL COMMISSION MEETS AT M'GREGOR

M'GREGOR, Iowa, Nov. 24.—The State Board of Railroad Commissioners will be in McGregor Tuesday, Nov. 25 to decide the matter of granting the McGregor Light and Power company the right to run a transmission line to Monona over the public highway which extends west through the villages of Glard and Froelich. The line is for the conveyance of electricity to Monona and other points along the way. The 116 property owners mostly farmers living along the highway have without a single exception signed the petition and a very large per cent of them expect to put in electricity. St. Olaf and Farmersburg are also talking of asking for an extension of the line to them. W. A. and L. N. Wellman of Monona have capitalized at $20,000 and have the poles nearly all up in Monona and are about ready to receive the current from McGregor.

ANIMATED CASK SCARES SLEUTHS

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Two detectives camping in the cellar of an alleged disorderly house to await the arrival of its proprietor, rubbed their eyes, shrieked and fled toward the stairs, when an ash barrel became animated and walked out of a dark corner.

"Don't run. Take this thing off," said a muffled voice from under the barrel. The barrel was gently lifted from the frame of Bob Gray, the man sought. Gray accompanied thirty-six women and eleven men, captured in his place, to the police station.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If your Back hurts or Bladder bothers you, drink lots of water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. Chas. A. Beyerslag, druggist, 503 Main street.

MOURNS BECAUSE HE MAKES MONEY

Store Owner Cuts Prices Eight Per Cent and Still Profits and Is Glum

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 24.—A company store which supplies two mining camps a mile apart in territory tributary to the Virginia metropolis today enjoys the distinction of being the first mercantile establishment on record to voluntarily make a flat reduction of eight per cent on everything upon its shelves "because it was earning too much money." And now sirloin steak at twenty cents per pound is a regular piece de resistance (that doesn't mean it isn't tender); rib roasts at fifteen cents makes them frequent on any table in the region, and the best quality of goods—by package and by the pound—are displayed at prices which carry the uninitiated back about twelve years when the high cost of living bugaboo was not so rampant on the horizon.

"If we make too much money we'll quit," declared the president of the company. And then he warned the store manager that only very nominal returns on the investment would be acceptable to him. But in spite of the general cut in prices, a larger and more centrally located store is being planned. "You see, our reduced prices," said the manager, "have so increased the volume of our cash sales, that the reductions are almost made up. Sometimes," he said almost mournfully, "I'm downright discouraged because the increased volume in trade comes so close to giving us the profits we used to make when we sold in smaller quantities and charged higher prices." The new store will handle a stock of $50,000 and a small army of clerks will be necessary.

WISCONSIN POTATO CENTER

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 24.—"The quality of Wisconsin's 1913 potato crop will be equalled only by that of Maine," declare specialists in potato raising who are familiar with conditions in the leading potato districts of the country. The Wisconsin Potato Growers' association is now establishing a number of pure bred seed centers. It is hoped that by another year the growers in these centers will be in position to provide seed for larger areas, and later on when the local demand has been met, follow the example of the pure bred grain growers in supplying the demands of other states.

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

IN CARNIVAL MOOD

By JANE OSBORN

Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

It was the winter carnival, the occasion of a yearly half holiday and an all-night revelry among the thousands of employees of the great Van Dorn Works, and the lower part of the city, usually so gray and workaday, had gone mad with tooting of horns, clanging of bells, gay lights and the laughter and shouts of the army of workers whose daily drudgery in mill and factory had built up the enormous Van Dorn estate.

It was a warm, almost balmy, winter night, with a low hung moon that shed a soft radiance and hid the dinginess and sordidness of the streets. A crowd of factory girls, dressed in fantastic, colored costumes, swung through the streets laughing and dodging the showers of confetti pelted at them by the crowd who stood to admire their youth. One of the girls, a dark, radiant little beauty, whose red lips and dark eyes had apparently not been dulled by long hours in the factory, turned back to cast a flirtatious glance at the splendor of the shower of confetti which she was now shaking from her dark hair and shoulders.

He was a tall, well-built young man standing by himself, and he had—caught by the unrestrained mood of the night—been following the pretty brunette for several minutes, pelting her with confetti in his efforts to attract her attention. As she looked back he returned her smile and raised his hat. She tossed him a cheap artificial rose that she wore of her belt—a challenge thoughtlessly given and as thoughtlessly accepted. He followed.

"We are all friends tonight," he said.

The girl smiled back, and in a second more her companions had gone on without her and she was walking at the stranger's side. "If you are a Van Dorn man, it's all right," said the girl with just a touch of hauteur that made the young man all the more eager to make the girl's acquaintance, and he didn't tell her that he was an outsider. He asked her whether she would go with him to see the fireworks.

"Yes," said the girl, "if you will get me back to the girls' club by 10 o'clock."

Then they turned up a side street, and before the surprised girl knew what she was doing she had been helped into a motor and was sitting by her companion's side.

"We can make better time this way than walking," he said half apologetically.

"You are not one of the factory men," said the girl, a shade of suspicion in her voice. "Of course you aren't or you wouldn't have a motor. Is it your own?"

The young man didn't go into explanations, but something in his boyish good humor, that fitted into her mood, established her confidence.

It was a marvelous half hour for both of them, and then they decided to go on to the outskirts of the city to wind up the day with a breath of country air.

He returned to look at her. It was partly that and partly the effect of the strangeness of the evening and partly because he had owned the car only a week and wasn't familiar with its clutches. He remembered turning to look at her in the moonlight—then the dizzying fall, the crash of glass and pounding of machinery—a long silence. Two minutes later he sat up dazed and unharmed and rubbed his eyes. Then he felt the girl's hand on his arm.

"Are you hurt? Oh, I'm so frightened. I think I broke my arm—that's all. I broke the other one once, so I know how it feels."

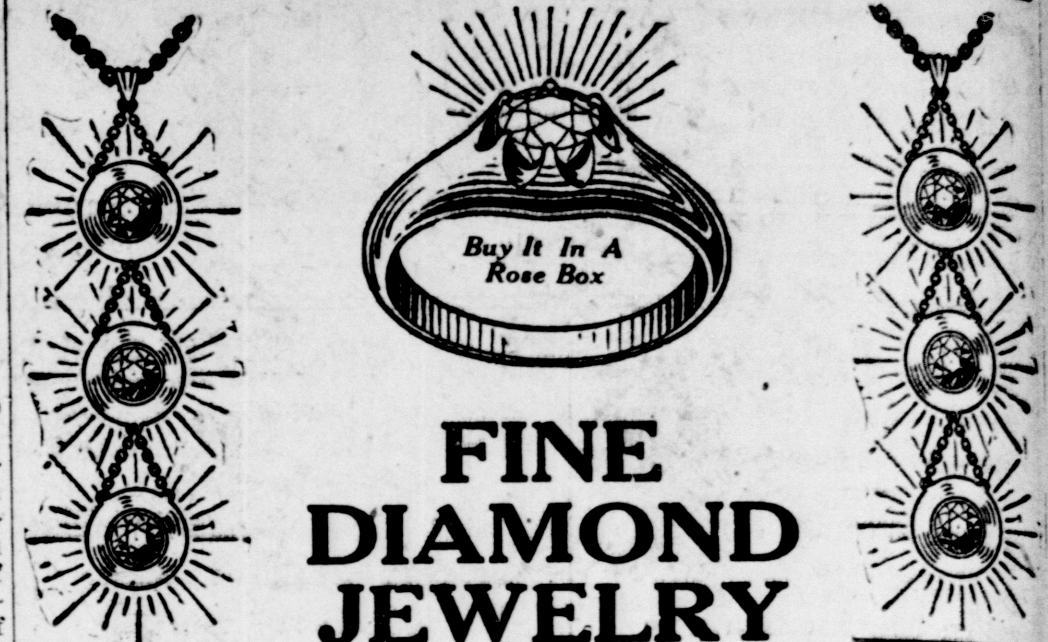

As the young man jumped to his feet and carried the girl to the motor which, in spite of its smashup was still in running order, he did some lightning thinking. He would do what was fair for her. She was worth the best he could do, and besides he was a gentleman. Still it was an ugly mixup to be in with a factory girl; it would mean a newspaper scandal. He was determined to spare his mother and sisters needless anxiety.

He was speeding toward the nearest hospital with the girl rather limp and quiet by his side.

"I'll tell you just how it is," he said as he felt the pressure of her hand on his arm. "Then I'll do what you say. We were both a little foolish to go off without knowing each other. We both want to avoid a scandal, don't we? Don't be frightened. I am Maddox Van Dorn."

The girl gave a cry as she recognized the name of the heir to the Van Dorn millions. He had expected her to be surprised, but he didn't know that she would be so distressed.

"I was out tonight because I wanted to get acquainted with the people who work for us. No one at home knows and, of course, no one would understand. You know how the newspapers would interpret it." He paused and looked at her intently. "You can get me in a hole if you want to, little woman. I intend to pay you damages. I'll do anything that is fair. It will be worth quite a lot to me if you keep still about it." "Oh, dear," the girl was wailing, apparently not listening to his explanation. "What a lot of trouble. Why did we do it? But Mr. Van Dorn, you are headed toward the hospital, and if you leave me there they will make you say who you are. If they don't they will take the number of your car. Couldn't you—oh, please, don't let them find out. Stop at the drug store and get some spirits of ammonia. It doesn't hurt much yet and then I can get back by myself and I'll say I stumbled and broke it—anything." "You are one girl in a million," said Maddox.

"Take me to the club house and let me slip in there. No one need know." In a few minutes more they had reached the front of the college settlement club for working girls in the Van Dorn factories. Just as she was slipping out of the car he remembered his duty to her. "I must see you later," he said, somehow. "Of course, I will pay you." Here he tried to slip all his available cash into her hand without counting it, but she pulled away. "Quick, what is your name? Where can I find you?"

"Anna Macy," she faltered, "just care of the Girls' Club."

The next day, still elated with the thought that he had narrowly escaped a family disgrace and bearing one or two cuts and bruises which he ascribed to a "little spill" he had had in his new motor, he went to inquire at the Girls' club for Anna Macy, only to find that she was unknown there. A week of mental unrest followed that ended in torment.

He had played a coward in not bearing the brunt of the whole thing. He was a cad, he told himself, and she was adorable. She had thought only of him, of how to let him out. Why didn't she want to see him again, when he was so eager?

He recalled the look she had given him when she challenged him to follow her. What an insight it had given him into the hearts of factory girls who could mingle such a spirit of daring with such reserve as she had later shown.

When he was still preoccupied and distraught he found himself one night at a debutante dinner party given by his young married sister. "I want you to go down with Vivien Dion," his sister told him. "She is the prettiest and the richest girl here, but her arm's in a sling—she tripped on a rug in her dressing room one night—and I am afraid she feels self-conscious. You will make her feel at ease. She didn't want to come, but her mother made her. If you were any other man you would fall in love with her, but of course you are hopeless."

Maddox saw first the laughing dark eyes, then the red lips and then the sling gracefully covered with a filmy scarf, as his sister led him to Vivien's side. It surely was, Maddox knew in that glance, Anna Macy. He clasped her hand.

"Don't say a word about it, promise," she said breathlessly. "I was crazy for some excitement, and I work in the Girls' club, so I went out that night. Mother thought I was in my room all the time. Then when I left you I ran all the way home. I think, crept in the servants' entrance."

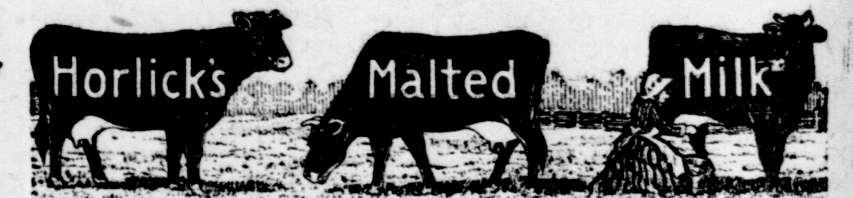

"I never thought you were that sort of a girl," said Maddox, looking at her with unhidden admiration. "You are a foolish child to talk to strangers."

"I never thought you were that sort, either," said Vivien, "but I like you better because I know you are."

"And I adore you," said Maddox. "I have been in love with you for the last ten days."

"What fun," said Vivien as they started down to dinner. "Because I am ever so much in love with you."

Daddy's Bedtime Story

A Little Boy Who Could Sew Nicely.

THERE is no doubt that small boys have not much taste for sewing. "Though once when I was a small boy," daddy told Jack and Evelyn, "I knew a boy who could sew very nicely. His mother said that he should learn to use the needle when he was young, and then if he grew up and became an old bachelor he would be able to patch his own clothes and sew on buttons." "And, let me tell you, he could sew very nicely. He had no sisters, and the evenings were sometimes dull. "One night as they gathered around the evening lamp George—that was his name—watched his mother take out her workbasket and begin stitching. "Mother, could I have a needle and thread?" he asked. "Certainly," his mother replied. "What are you going to make?" "I'd like to make something useful," George answered. "I'll tell you what you can make," she answered. "I'll cut out some patches, and you can make a quilt for your own bed." "George was pleased with the idea, and when his mother cut out the gay patches to form a star pattern he went to work with a will. "Every evening when they sat down at the table George sewed more patches. Soon he had quite a pile of them done. "When the patches were sewed his mother showed him how to put them together. "Then she lined the quilt with cotton and tacked a plain piece of material on for a back. When she had bound the edges together George had a handsome cover for his bed, and he was very proud of it. "When this little quilt was done he set to work and made a larger and handsomer one for his mother. He seemed to have a knack in matching the colors, and his relatives saved 'patches' for George's quilts. "Every year a fair was given by the people of that part of the state. It was called the county fair. The farmers sent their finest cattle and fattest pigs to be shown. The farmers' wives sent jars of their best preserves, their choicest butter and finest hams. "Besides this, there were all sorts of pretty and useful things made with the needle, and prizes were given for the nicest and best things of each kind. "A dear old lady who admired George's quilts told his mother he ought to send one to the fair to show. "So a quilt did go off to the fair, and the judges were so tickled over the idea of a little boy having made a quilt that they voted to give him a handsome bicycle as a prize, and I'm afraid after that George did not make many quilts."

AN INVESTMENT THAT WILL PAY

Tennis is over with for the year. Golf is about at an end. The great, open out-of-doors which has been the training master to millions for some happy months is closing up its season. What are you going to do about it? You, Mr. Hard-working Man, who have sacrificed your few pounds of flesh to the healthful strain, and have received in exchange a tonic better than any drug in the Pharmacopoeia, are you going, now that winter draws on, to let your hard muscles soften, your clear eye dull, your quickened vitality slump and slacken? If so, don't blame Providence or the weather because you fall a prey to tonsillitis or grip, or find yourself presently wincing from the twinges of rheumatism, or hobble forth next spring feeling somewhat more than a thousand years old. It's all your own fault. You will have wasted capital: the capital of bodily and nervous force which you have laid up for yourself by your summer's exercise. Why not keep it up in the winter? Surely there is some sort of athletic opportunity in your town—club or squash or hand-ball court, or Young Men's Christian association gymnasium. If there isn't, there ought to be. Get busy and start one. Indoor exercise may not be as enlivening or quite as beneficial as outdoor play, but it is an in-calculable number of times better than none at all. Of course there is the familiar can't-afford-the-time argument; but the man who advances this plea is usually the man who, about February, takes three weeks off to go to the hospital with stomach trouble, or gets invalided off to a sanitarium to recuperate his depleted nerves. Three hours a week in a gymnasium isn't very much time to extend. Five is better; but three, conscientiously adhered to, will keep the average man going and enable him to get through his winter's work in sound condition. Give it a trial. It isn't an amusement only; it's an investment.—Collier's Weekly.

HERE'S A LITTLE VOLUME WELL WORTH HAVING

"Bible Lights From Shakespeare" is the name of a most interesting little volume from the pen of William Burgess, author of "The Bible in Shakespeare" and "The Religion of Ruskin," both of which have gained recognition as the best interpretation of their respective subjects produced. The new volume epitomizes the thought of "The Bible in Shakespeare," which is rather voluminous, and its twenty little homilies go so directly and pleasantly to the evidence that the "Bard of Avon" was a Christian and drew upon the Bible for much of his inspiration, that we recommend it to our readers. It may be had by addressing Roscoe M. Burgess, 1632 McCormick Bldg., Chicago. The price is sixty cents.

To give an idea of the standing of Mr. Burgess as a writer upon the topics with which he deals, we quote the following comment of the Chicago Record-Herald upon his work on Ruskin:

"Mr. Burgess has rendered a real service, especially to religious teachers of every sort, in bringing under one cover the whole mass of Ruskin's religious utterances, culled from the twenty-six volumes of his collected works, and here classified for easy access. Such a book, so admirably arranged, and withal so reverently responsive to a pure and melodious voice, will do good in many ways, and is to be highly recommended."

"Bible Sidelights From Shakespeare" should be especially valuable to pastors and publicists dealing with the big problems of the day. Already "The Bible in Shakespeare" has a large circulation among this class, but as a ready reference the smaller volume is more handy. Someone has said that given Shakespeare and the Bible, one really needs no further reference works. Here we have those things in which the two approach a common ground culled and interpreted for our daily use.

EKERN IS BACK

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 24. — Herman L. ARGUE PEDDLER'S LICENSE

Winning a Vote

At a recent election a ready answer secured one woman canvasser a vote for her party. She had fluently advanced several reasons in favor of her candidate to a grumpy elector, who told her she could talk the hind leg off a donkey.

"Well," she replied, "it would give me much more pleasure to drive you to the polling place than the hospital."

The retort so tickled the voter that he promised to support her side.

Seeing Paris

In Paris, when a street car is full, they put up a sign "Complet" (full), and afterwards they won't let anybody else get aboard. Jayhawker had just returned from the Ville Lumiere, and a friend asked, "Did you see a good deal of Paris, my boy?" "Yes, sir," said he. "I saw every place but one, and that was 'Complet.' Every time I tried to get out to see the Eiffel tower, the cars were full."—The Argonaut.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

The Thanksgiving Girl
You may boast of the maiden of June;
And brag of the maiden of June;
Your winter girl may be a hummer
To skate with and lovingly spoon;
You may boast of the lassie bewitching
In hobbie skirt, store puff and curl,
But give me the maid of the kitchen—
The reliable Thanksgiving girl.

For you be the maiden entrancing
With eyes that are soulfully brown;
I'm married and done with romancing,
Past forty and now settled down.
No foot for the dance or the mazy,
Delightfully soul stirring whirl,
But I tell you, my lads, she's a daisy—
The gay, buxom Thanksgiving girl.

I'm forty; there's no use denying.
The lassies no longer attract
Or set me to woefully sighing.
I'm sordidly matter of fact.
I've long ceased to notice their dresses,
I'm crabbed, perhaps, and a churl,
But at forty a fellow God blesses
The gay, buxom Thanksgiving girl.

The girl who can get up a dinner
Of turkey and stuffing and pie
And set it before an old sinner—
Well, just such a sinner as I—
And smile at the kids while I'm carving
Is a julu, a peach and a pearl.
Here, Nellie, although I am starving,
God bless you, my Thanksgiving girl!

—Detroit Free Press.

Honest Now, Why Not?

"These are great times, I'm here to tell you. No matter what happens at the house, I don't have to go down any more and fire the cook."
"What do you do? Start formal investigation proceedings or just simply impeach her?"
"Neither. We've found an intelligence office right up to the minute in its line of work. If a new cook doesn't suit, my wife and I get up a sort of initiative and referendum petition stating details of the situation, mail it to the intelligence office manager and she is recalled by return mail."
—St. Louis Republic.

Glad to Have Anybody

There was a young man vain of his accomplishments as a preacher, who, after officiating at a certain service for a Scottish minister who occasionally had to avail himself of the assistance of probationers, was met by the old gentleman with extended hands as he descended from the pulpit. Expecting high praise he said: "No compliments, I pray."
"Nay, nay, my young friend," said the parson, "nowadays I'm glad of anybody."

Poor Weather for Golf

A gentleman who had been spending a holiday at a Scottish seaside village noted for its golf links asked one of the caddies if he got much carrying in the winter time.
"Na, sir, na," replied the caddie.
"There's na carrying in the winter time. We see, it is this way. If it's no snaf it's frost; if it's no frost it's snaf; if it's neither snaf, nor frost, it's rain; if it's no rain, it's wind; and if it's a fine day it's the Sawbath."

Not Enough Boy

James started his third helping of pudding with delight. "Once upon a time, James," admonished his mother, "there was a little boy who ate too much pudding, and he burst!"
James considered. "There ain't such a thing as too much pudding," he decided.

"There must be," contended his mother, "else why did the little boy burst?"
James passed his plate for the fourth time, saying: "Not enough boy."

DIABETES YIELDS IN HOSPITAL

Place—Good Samaritan's Hospital in Dawson City, Yukon Territory, Alaska.

Patient—G. A. Hatch, a business man of Dawson.

Case—Diabetes, believed to be incurable the world over.

Prognosis—Hopeless, not only because physicians consider it so, but the condition of the patient was so extreme that death was believed to be not far away.

A friend of Hatch's heard about his plight, and called upon him. He told Hatch that five years ago he was in the same fix and sent to California for Fulton's Diabetic Compound, and it restored him to business. He stated that he kept some of it on hand and would loan Hatch some till more could be had from San Francisco.

To the surprise of Hatch's friends he was soon able to leave the hospital. Instead of being in his grave, four months later found him on a visit to his old home in Portland, Maine.

Passing through San Francisco he called and gave us this item in person.

If you have diabetes and are of middle age or over do you not owe it to yourself and family to try Fulton's Diabetic Compound before giving up. It can be had at all druggists. Druggists supplied by Spencer-McCord Drug Co., wholesale distributors.

"You know I am not abusing our Francois," Alixe protested. "Why, Pietro, my father believes, and I believe, that if affairs should so happen that he has his opportunity he may yet be one of the great characters in history. My father says he is made up of inspirations, illuminations—and limitations."

"Yes," said Pietro thoughtfully. "He has the faults of brilliancy and fearlessness. He judges too rapidly. If he were afraid even—if he saw the other side of a question even, his judgment would be safer. It may well happen that he will be one of the great men of Europe; it may also happen that by some single act of mismanagement he will throw away his career—or his life. God keep him safe!" Pietro said simply. And Alixe echoed it—"God keep him safe!" And then, "I am going to write him, Pietro, about us. My father knows where to reach him at Boulogne. I am going to say just a word that what he has wished for all his life is true. It will get to him the night before the battle."

"Are you sure you are right, Alixe?" Pietro asked doubtfully.

"Sure," said Alixe buoyantly. "Give him my love, then," said Pietro.

CHAPTER XXXVIII. The Night Before.

Out in the dark, in the harbor of Boulogne, the ship Edinburgh Castle lay docking in the wind. Prince Louis Bonaparte, who had chartered her, and the handful of his followers who had sailed with him on her from England had disembarked quietly at twilight, and in small companies had succeeded in entering the town and the quarters of the officers who were, in France, the nucleus and the hope of their attempt. In the rooms of Lieutenant Alalenz, the host of the Prince, a short council had been held to go over once more the plans which had been discussed and settled by letter for weeks already. The work was carefully arranged; there was almost nothing to be changed, and the little company of men who were trying so large a fate, scattered, with grave faces, with quiet good nights to the Prince who might tomorrow night be their Emperor, to the Prince for whose sake they might tomorrow night be any or all ruined, men or dead men.

Charles Thelin, his valet of many years, unpacked his Highness' belongings busily in Lieutenant Alalenz's bedroom; the Prince heard subconsciously attentive to small things—as the servant moved about, yet he stood lost in his thoughts, as the last officer left him. One hand lay on a table littered with papers of the expedition; the gray dull eyes were fixed yet on the door that had shut out his friends. There was no hint of wavering in the poised mind; there was no shadow of doubt of his destiny; yet the man was very human, and tonight great loneliness seized him. These good fellows who were risking their lives and their fortunes for him were devoted to him without doubt, yet what did it amount to? That they hoped for advancement through him, it would be absurd to resent; one and all they believed that he would be Emperor; they knew that he would be grateful; their fortunes were made if tomorrow should succeed. They had much friendliness for him—he realized that under his father's tactful manner he had his mother's gift of winning hearts and that his followers loved him—in a way. But what did it amount to—love of followers for a Prince? He longed tonight for something more personal, and suddenly, with a pang, he knew what he wanted—like the homesick lad who had cried himself to sleep at the Tuilleries twenty-five years before, he wanted his mother.

The tie between Hortense and this youngest and dearest son had been close, and this was the first great event of his eventful life in which her clear mind and daring spirit had not played its part. Before his attempt on Strasburg, now three years ago, he had prepared

"De tous cote's l'on que je suis bete."

Francois sang softly. The Prince smiled. He knew the song and its place in Francois' history. As he opened the door the singing stopped; the young man sprang respectfully to his feet, a letter grasped in his hand, and stood waiting.

"Sire!" he said.

"IT WAS RECOMMENDED TO ME BY MY DOCTOR"

The Reason Why so Many People Take Father John's Medicine.

When Mrs. C. H. Dunkel, of 33 Linden street, Reading, Pa., was asked why she took Father John's Medicine for her cough, she replied, "it was recommended by my doctor." The same question was asked and a similar answer returned by the following:—Mrs. A. E. Hixon, 30 Larkin street, Bangor, Me.; Henry F. Vilet, 25 Crown street, Meriden, Conn.; Frank Poff, Hallam, Pa.; Miss Catherine Boyle, 45 Blackburn street, Fairhaven, Mass.; Charles L. Brown, Irving, Ill., as well as a great many others.

Physicians, hospitals and other institutions all over the world endorse the merits of Father John's Medicine because they know of its history and curative power.

It cures colds, coughs and throat and lung troubles in the natural way by driving the impurities out of the body and at the same time its pure food elements make flesh and strength for those who are weak and run down. A doctor's prescription, free from alcohol and poisonous drugs in any form.

two letters, one in case of success, one of failure, to be sent off post-haste to the Queen, ill at Arenenberg; tonight there was no one to write to, no one to whom his successes or failure meant more than to himself. All that warmth and eager hopefulness which had outlasted danger and exile and illness and age, had gone from earth, and the body of Hortense lay in the little church of Revil, near Malmaison. The Emperor-to-be dropped into a chair; his head fell and his outstretched arms rustled amid the plans of fortifications, and the writing under his cheek was wet. The weakness was only for a moment, and quietly, as he did everything, the Prince pulled himself together. He sat erect and listened. Thelin was brushing clothes with energy in the bedroom, and through another door there came a light sound of a paper turned, of a gay song sung softly. And a glow suddenly warmed the Prince's heart; here was some one who had known his mother, who had been, indeed, for a few days her son; here was some one who cared for him, he believed it, with a half-consuming flame of devotion. Since the man's arrival from Virginia six weeks before, to have him near himself had been a pleasure to Louis Bonaparte, he seemed to bring back the freshness of his early days, of the young confidence when his star shone for him, distant perhaps, but undimmed by the black clouds which drove now a cross it. He was a bit superstitious about Francois as well, with an idea, which he spoke to no one, that a pivotal interest of his career rested in the modest figure.

"Have a care of that young man, my Prince," had said General Montholon, the old soldier. "Do not trust him too far."

The Prince's faint smile gleamed. "I would trust the empire to his loyal heart, General."

"But yes," answered the general swiftly, "to his heart, but not to his head. He is of the dreamers—a visionary. He might ruin many months' work with one good intention." And the Prince reflected, but did not agree.

He rose, this night in Boulogne, as the paper rustled and the little French provincial chanson sounded from the room where Francois Beaupre, now his secretary, had been installed, and sepped to the closed door.

"De tous cote's l'on que je suis bete."

Francois sang softly. The Prince smiled. He knew the song and its place in Francois' history. As he opened the door the singing stopped; the young man sprang respectfully to his feet, a letter grasped in his hand, and stood waiting.

"Sire!" he said.

GETS $3,000 AWARD

Pimples Source of Great Danger

May be Means of Absorbing Disease Germs in Most Unexpected Manner.

In thousands of instances the most violent types of blood troubles have been the result of coming in contact with disease germs in public places, and the apparently insignificant pimple has been the cause. It spreads with astonishing rapidity, often infecting the entire system in a few days.

It is fortunate, however, that there is a remedy to cope quickly and thoroughly with such a condition, and thanks to the energy of its producers the famous S. S. S. may now be had at most any drug store in the civilized world.

This preparation stands alone as a blood purifier. It is somewhat revolutionary in its composition, since it accomplishes all that was ever claimed for mercury, iodides, arsenic and other destructive mineral drugs, and yet it is absolutely a purely vegetable product. It contains one ingredient which serves the active purpose of stimulating each cell cellular part of the tissues to the healthy and judicious selection of its own essential nutriment. There are more cases of articular rheumatism, locomotor ataxia, paresis, neuritis, and similar diseases resultant from the use of minerals than most people are aware of. These facts are brought out in a highly interesting book compiled by the medical department of The Swift Specific Co., 217 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. It is mailed free, together with special information, to all who write describing their symptoms.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. today, but be careful not to have something palmed off on you falsely claimed to be "just as good."

Make Your Blood Pure and Immune With S. S. S.

WARMTH TO BRING FAMINE IN COAL

Fuel Moves Slowly and the Roads Predict Shortage Shortage when Cold Snap Sets In

A continuance of warm weather in Wisconsin has resulted in such slow movement of coal on the railroads that a shortage, when once the cold weather comes, is the prediction of traffic officials of roads entering the city.

Repeated warnings have been given by the railroad companies as the result of the condition which has been aggravated by the warm weather that has prevailed this fall.

Coal warehouses are practically filled, and the disposition of new shipments of coal from the fields presents another difficult problem. Numbers of filled coal cars are standing in the Milwaukee and Burlington railroad yards.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly thatn body can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant.

BERNARD REUSGEN KILLED BY CANCER

Surviving him are two sons and his wife. The sons are George and Jacob, both residents of this city. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon from the residence, Rev. MANY EAGER TO BUY DEER MEAT

State Game Department Is Flooded with Orders for Venison Confiscated by Wardens

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 24.—Applications for the purchase of venison are numerous in the office of the state game department. Its purchase from other sources, except from the wardens, is prohibited under penalty. Applications are on file from a dozen persons for whole carcasses, and small orders are so numerous that not all can be filled. The price ranges from 10 to 25 cents per pound.

One buyer hails from Freeport, Ill. The state received $2,803.28 last year from confiscations of deer, small game, furs, fish, traps, guns, etc.

A deputy warden last week confiscated two deer killed in Michigan near State Line by F. Kennedy of Goodland, Ind., who held a Michigan non-resident hunting license. He violated the law in shipping more than one deer (this provision being similar to the Wisconsin statute), and in failing to get a permit from the Michigan department to transport his venison in another state. The deer were confiscated in Wisconsin.

Kennedy apparently took the deer in ignorance of the law, as his transactions with the express company and the authorities were open.

MRS. S. NELSON IS LAID TO REST

Funeral services for the aged Mrs. Syverine Nelson, who died here Friday, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence, 403 North Fourteenth street, and at 2:30 from the West Avenue Norwegian Lutheran church. Rev. J. A. Hellevad took charge of the services. Burial was made at Oak Grove cemetery.

Lake is then brought into the story. The girl has been sent to his house to endeavor to get him to the Fallon resort where he may be robbed with ease. Mrs. Fallon turns traitor to the gang and tells Lake, who falls in love with the girl. The girl all the time still loves Leeland the criminal.

Lake, being advised of the plan to rob him, falls in with the plan of the girl who unsuspectingly is trying to trap him, and goes to the Fallon house. There he turns on the criminals.

The most sympathetic part of the entire play is woven into the last act, when Mrs. Fallon, kind at heart, has sold everything she owns in the world and has bought Laylock's freedom.

He quickly finished the middle when he returns from jail. Leeland is killed, and Lake marries the girl and sends Mrs. Fallon and Laylock west.

DEEP PURPLE IS POPULAR FEATURE

Famous Melodrama at the Majestic Opens Run to Crowded Houses Sunday

"The Deep Purple," a five act drama by Paul Armstrong and Wilson Mizner, is supplanting vaudeville and musical comedy at the Majestic the first half of the week. The company played to packed houses at all three of the opening shows yesterday.

The name of the play is derived from the character of the man taking the leading role; Edward Whitney, in the part of William Lake.

The play was written to shed a new light on the melodramatic life of the underworld of New York City, and it gives the public a clear understanding of the methods of criminals in their operations. Through it all, there is the throbbing life, intense feeling and fast action.

The first scene opens in the parlor of Kate Fallon, a woman of the underworld, who controls a house of ill fame and a shelter for crooks, murderers, and a few detectives who work in co-operation with the criminals.

Myrtle Miller, playing the part of Doris Moore, has been brought to New York from a distant city by a clever criminal, with the intention of disposing of her for a sum of money.

Kate Fallon sees the innocence in the girl and interferes.

Gordon Laylock, a bank robber, stick-up-man and bad man in general, from the west, appears at the Fallon resort with a letter to Mrs. Fallon asking protection. Laylock started on his career of crime on another man's account, and wants to go straight.

Leeland, "Pop" Clark, a crooked friend of Leeland's, and Connelly, a crooked detective, learn that Laylock is a criminal and turn him over to the police. He is put away for a short sentence while they may learn for certain his record.

Lake is then brought into the story. The girl has been sent to his house to endeavor to get him to the Fallon resort where he may be robbed with ease. Mrs. Fallon turns traitor to the gang and tells Lake, who falls in love with the girl. The girl all the time still loves Leeland the criminal.

Lake, being advised of the plan to rob him, falls in with the plan of the girl who unsuspectingly is trying to trap him, and goes to the Fallon house. There he turns on the criminals.

The most sympathetic part of the entire play is woven into the last act, when Mrs. Fallon, kind at heart, has sold everything she owns in the world and has bought Laylock's freedom.

He quickly finished the middle when he returns from jail. Leeland is killed, and Lake marries the girl and sends Mrs. Fallon and Laylock west.

The culvert is six feet in diameter. The three younger boys emerged from the culvert just at the moment of the slide, and they were buried as the mouth of the culvert closed. The other boy ran back and gave the alarm at the Champion mine, where the parents of all are striking miners. A big gang of strikers grasped the tools they had laid down four months ago and hurried to the ravine.

PHILHARMONIC CLUB

That La Crosse is soon to have a symphony orchestra was evidenced yesterday afternoon at the rehearsal of the La Crosse Philharmonic club at the W. B. U. hall. Hadyn's "Surprise Symphony," "Don Juan" overture, and "Henry VII Waltzes" were among the numbers studied. Prof. F. W. Rostrom predicts a complete instrumentation before many weeks, and with constant study on the part of the members, it will be only a short time before this organization will be a powerful factor for good music in La Crosse.

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated, give "California Syrup of Figs"

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea.

Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

RE-ELECT GOMPERS WITHOUT STRUGGLE

Only One Delegate Opposes

Despite Big Fight Alleged to Have Been in Store

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 24.—Samuel Gompers will rule the American Federation of Labor for another year.

After re-election Gompers by a practically unanimous vote and selecting Philadelphia as the 1914 convention city, one of the most unexciting conventions in the federation's history adjourned sine die Saturday night.

The attempt of the "insurgents" to defeat Gompers for re-election fell flat. The "antis" were strong during the early days of the convention, but when the time came to elect officers only a single delegates opposed Gompers' re-election. That was Delegate Knerr of Salt Lake, who was instructed by his constituents so to vote.

Philadelphia was chosen as the convention city for 1914 by a vote of 10,633 against 8,402 for Fort Worth, Texas.

SLIDE KILLS CHILDREN

THREE BOYS BURIED AND ARE SMOTHERED BENEATH HUGE HEAP OF DEBRIS IN CULVERT

HOUGHTON, Mich., Nov. 24.—Paul Daume, aged 10 years; James Renaldi, 10; John Iskra, 6, were buried and instantly killed under a slide on the Copper Range railway at Painesdale near here Saturday afternoon.

In company with Arnold Daume, aged 12, the children were playing in a concrete culvert built through a ravine that was being filled up with excavated material for an extension of the main line of the railroad into Painesdale.

The culvert is six feet in diameter. The three younger boys emerged from the culvert just at the moment of the slide, and they were buried as the mouth of the culvert closed. The other boy ran back and gave the alarm at the Champion mine, where the parents of all are striking miners. A big gang of strikers grasped the tools they had laid down four months ago and hurried to the ravine.

As far as known here this was the first body found from the ill-fated boat and demonstrates that she was lost with all her crew. The body was identified as that of Henry B. Haskins of Sandusky, O., second cook. The remains are in charge of Sheriff Cruse.

The proceedings were put over till March 2, 1914, and no further action will be taken except a hearing on a motion for a new trial.

PHILHARMONIC CLUB

That La Crosse is soon to have a symphony orchestra was evidenced yesterday afternoon at the rehearsal of the La Crosse Philharmonic club at the W. B. U. hall. In spite of the fact that organization is far from complete, and that only three or four meetings have been held, the improvement is noticeable. Hadyn's "Surprise Symphony," "Don Juan" overture, and "Henry VII Waltzes" were among the numbers studied. Prof. F. W. Rostrom predicts a complete instrumentation before many weeks, and with constant study on the part of the members, it will be only a short time before this organization will be a powerful factor for good music in La Crosse.

ROADS ARGUE FOR INCREASED RATES

Eastern Lines Plead Advanced Cost of Labor and New Safety Laws for Excuse

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Whether the high cost of living shall be further boosted by increased freight rates will be determined by hearings which opened today before the interstate commerce commission. This investigation with Louis D. Brandeis of Boston acting as attorney for the commission will determine whether the western roads east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac shall be allowed to advance their rates on an average of five per cent.

Indications at the outset of the inquiry pointed to a determination on the part of the interstate commerce commission to prevent such increases by having Brandeis develop a method of retrenchment in railroad operating expenses.

President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio system, represented the eastern roads today. Willard, spokesman for the forty-nine eastern lines, pleaded the pinch of increased costs as the reason for the advances. He declared that arbitration and mediation had boosted employees' salaries and new safety and labor laws had increased expenses enormously in recent years. Rate increases, he argued, are needed to furnish the public with high grade service.

INTERRUPTS SERVICE TO OFFER MILLION— BACK TO ASYLUM

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Nov. 24.—A kindly faced man of most benevolent smile, who offered to donate a million dollars to the Independent Congregational church for reform work, was back in his room in a local sanatorium today, and the Rev. Anthony Mills and his congregation were suffering mental depression.

Rev. Mills had finished telling his congregation of his plans for moving picture shows and other features designed to bring people to church, when a stranger rose from a front pew and asked leave to make an announcement.

"I've been observing the work done by this church for some time," he said, "and I have decided to endow it with $1,000,000." The choir forgot to sing the closing hymn while the congregation pressed forward to shake the hand of the prospective donor. Through the door came a bulky-framed nurse. He tapped the kindly faced man on the shoulder and led him away.

The girl is described as about 19 years old, a blonde, of medium height and weight and her underwear bore the initials "F. A. Y." Her shoes bore the name of a maker at Livingston, Mont.

BURY MAN WITH NO RELATIVES

If local authorities are not able to locate the relatives of John Sullivan, whose body lies at the Fessler and Dahl morgue, it will in all probability be buried at the La Crosse county poor farm tomorrow. Sullivan was shot at DeSoto several days ago by a fellow workman following a drunken brawl. The man is being held for murder.

TO PROTEST RUSS PRISON TREATMENT

Plan World-wide Clamor Against Injustice and Mistreatment in Kingdom of Czar

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—A proposed world-wide protest against the alleged injustice of Russian prisons and the inhuman treatment of political prisoners will be launched in the newspapers of Europe tomorrow by the publication of a petition signed by scores of prominent business and professional men, scientists, churchmen and politicians.

The petition, completed today, asks all the world to unite in the protest to Russia and declares that besides the countless thousands of Russian political offenders who have been exiled to Siberia, 30,000 have been executed since 1895. Thousands in the prisons today, it says, are being tortured and starved, the government allowing only five cents a day for the subsistence of each prisoner.

BRYAN REBUKES JINGO JOURNALS

Bitterly Gives Lie to Story of Protest to Britain Over the War-ships

CONDEMNS ALL FALSE REPORTS

Declares Reckless Publication Tends to Put the Nation in a Bad Position

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Smarting under the many false stories widely circulated by certain news agencies making the Mexican crisis more serious than it is, Secretary of State Bryan today broke his attitude of silence. In the strongest language he denounced the story printed under a Vera Cruz date in the morning newspapers alleging that he had protested against Great Britain sending warships there.

In private conversation, Bryan characterized the story as a "malicious falsehood," and later in a formal statement gave the lie to it in its entirety. He said:

"The statement published this morning to the effect that the war department protested against the action of Great Britain in sending two war vessels to Mexican waters is absolutely false. In denying this statement, I desire a condemnation of publications of this kind, without inquiring into the truth or falsity of them. A denial cannot reach all who may read the statement or cannot prevent discussion and editorial comment predicted on false statements. Surely in international affairs there ought to be a patriotic desire to promote friendly relations with other nations and these cannot be promoted by the reckless publication of false statements in regard to the acts of public officials."

U. S. AVIATORS KILLED

LIEUTENANTS KELLEY AND ELLINGTON OF THE ARMY FALL TO DEATH OVER SAN DIEGO BAY

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 24.—Lieutenants Eric L. Ellington and Hugh M. Kelley of the army aviation corps of the United States army, were killed today by a fall from an aeroplane over North Island in San Diego bay.

The men were maneuvering 80 feet above the earth when something went wrong with the machine, which turned turtle.

Lieutenant Kelley was a Kentuckian, while Lieutenant Ellington was from North Carolina. These deaths bring the total fatalities at the army aviation school here within a year to five.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—Aviator Corbeau fell in the roadway near Senlis this afternoon and was instantly killed when a splinter of the aeroplane passed through his body.

JEWS NOT JEWELS FOUND AMERICA

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 24.—Repeating the story recently circulated in Europe that Christopher Columbus was a Jew, Benjamin Schloss, president of the Commercial Travelers' congress, of California, pushed Queen Isabella off her pedestal of fame, in an address before the Jewish Shelter society.

"It has been learned that Isabella did not pawn her jewels to supply Columbus with funds, but that the Jewish chancellor, Don Santangel, advanced Columbus $17,000 without interest," said Schloss. "It was not jewels, but Jews that made the discovery of America possible."

ROWLISON SPEAKS AT THE Y. M. C. A.

New astor of the Congregational Church Discusses the "Secret of Power"

Rev. C. C. Rowlison, new pastor of the First Congregational church, spoke yesterday afternoon at the weekly men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. He took for his subject "The Secret of Power."

Rev. Rowlison based his talk on the Bible characters, David and Goliath, comparing them to modern characters, and comparing the times of these two men with modern times. He emphasized David's strength against the giant, and told why, in his opinion, the little man was the stronger. He impressed on the number of men that were present the need of a strong defense against things that deteriorate.

The Y. M. C. A. male quartet, which is gaining in popularity, sang a few selections.

New Indoor Ball League

A new Indoor Baseball league, to be known as the Commercial league, has been organized. The La Crosse Gas and Electric company, the Plover company, Doerflinger's the Button Works, the Burlington railroad and Sta-Rite Engine company have entered teams in the league. Thirty men from the different teams practiced last Friday night in the gymnasium.

Saturday night the Plover company defeated the first team of the "Y" in a practice game.

The eight teams, composing the league of Junior A and B, will have finished their work, both in indoor baseball and athletics, within a few days, when the winners will be treated by the losers to a banquet.

Within a short time, the monthly athletic meets, both of the local and state branches, will be run off.

Shot Put This Month

The event this month, which will be run off in the different associations of the state, will be the shot put. The high jump will be run over, as the winners in several of the associations were tied.

An event which is drawing a great deal of attention in sport circles throughout the city is an indoor baseball game which is to be played Wednesday in the "Y" gymnasium between the "Y" boys and the players of Company M of the local militia.

The soldier boys are said to have the best team in the city, and with the association boys very strong, a good game is sure to follow. Physical Director H. R. Lee has issued an invitation to the general public to be present.

WANT WANAMAKER IN CUSTOMS FRAUD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Rodman Wanamaker, son of John Wanamaker, wealthy New York and Philadelphia merchant, is being sought in the customs fraud case which the democratic administration recently reopened, according to authoritative reports today at the department of justice.

John Wanamaker, it was learned today, made a four hour explanation on Saturday in an effort to show that there was no "personal guilt" in the cases which he settled for $100,000 in the closing days of the Taft administration. His son is now believed to be in Paris and department officials think that they could glean valuable information from him if he could be located.

While believing that in re-opening of the case, it was found strong circumstantial evidence the government admitted, that there are few if any witnesses who can back up its claims. Evidence has come to light that dutiable goods were packed in cases as samples, which under the law were admitted free at Philadelphia.

The appraisers passed these goods without making personal inspections and relied upon statements of the company's representatives because of their reputation.

GOSSIP CAUSES GIRL'S SUICIDE

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—A coroner's inquest, to be held tonight, was expected to show that false gossip caused Evelyn Behn, 18, known as the "prettiest high school girl in Park Ridge" to end her life, by swallowing carbolic acid.

The girl's sweetheart, Fredrick Lahm, told her of the rumors at a high school dance. She forced the man whose name has been linked with hers to deny the stories in Lahm's presence.

While the two youths were quarreling the girl slipped away to a drug store and returning, ended her life.

Chicago Grain Review
CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Wheat was 1/4c higher and for December and 1/2c higher for May at the outset today, principally because of higher options at Liverpool, based on reports of unfavorable weather for early harvesting in northern Argentina. Receipts northwest were heavy, however, and during the forenoon, May lost 1/4 of the advance, December holding firm.
Corn started a shade higher, helped by the cable, but broke quickly and went down 3/4 to 1/2c. Clear weather in America that was favorable for marketing, encouraged the bears and the drop started when Armour and other leading houses started selling in the first half hour.
Oats had a steady start, but eased off a fraction on the break in corn.
Provisions started higher on the strength in hogs, but the demand was light and prices eased off a trifle toward noon.
Grain futures continued weak in the afternoon, shading off fraction-ally throughout nearly the entire list before the close.

Provisions closed a trifle under noon and opening prices.

SPORT NEWSGRAND RAPIDS IS MEAT FOR SPARTA

Snow Them Under Score of 60 Points to 2 and Get Step Nearer State Title

SPARTA, Wis., Nov. 24.—(Special.)—The locals snowed under the Grand Rapids team Saturday. The final score was 60 to 2, putting Sparta a step nearer the right to claim the championship. The Oshkosh team has agreed to play the locals only on their ground or on the Ripon field while Sparta offered to play at some place between the two towns.

In the first quarter the Grand Rapids players were swept from their feet and the locals ran up a score of 26. Sparta resorted to putting just to keep the ball out of local territory.

The next quarter, the Grand Rapids team came back strong and the locals only made one touchdown and the goal kick. The quarter ended with the score 33 to 0.

In the third quarter the locals, by a series of forward passes and line smashes, ran up 21 more points. Two of the Grand Rapids men had to be taken from the game because of injuries.

In the fourth quarter the locals made only one touchdown because of many penalties. In the last two minutes of play, Sparta was penalized 15 yards in two successive times and this put them back on the seven yard line. They tried to punt but the Grand Rapids men blocked the ball and it went back of the goal. One of the local men fell on the ball and it counted as a safety, giving Grand Rapids their two points.

PICKS KEELER ON ALL-STAR ELEVEN

Walter Eckersall Names Local Boy for Second Year as Guard on All-Conference Team

"Tubby," baptized Raymond, Keeler, of La Crosse, guard on the Wisconsin university team for the last two years, is picked by Walter Eckersall as a member of the all-conference eleven, in a story which appeared yesterday in the Chicago Tribune. This is Keeler's second second year on the honorary eleven of the west.

Keeler and Butler are the only two men of the Wisconsin team to win all conference laurels at the hands of Eckersall. Eckie picks Buck and Ofstie, however, as his choice for tackle and end on the all-conference second team.

Concerning Keeler's right to the position, Eckersall says:

"Keeler played true to the form he showed a year ago, when he was selected for this honorary eleven. The Badger is a shifty performer who adapts himself to the situations and plays accordingly. He has displayed plenty of fight and determination in all contests."

KITCHENER FOR VICEROY

LONDON, Nov. 24.—It was strongly intimated in British official circles that Lord Kitchener, now in Egypt, may soon replace Viscount Hardinge as viceroy of India. Because of the native unrest in India, the government is said to feel the need of a stronger policy out there than Hardinge has maintained. A special dispatch from Bombay said that Lord Hardinge was expected to resign early next year, ostensibly because of ill health.

How many times do you race around the kitchen each meal getting things you ought to have right at your fingers' ends? How many unnecessary steps do you take? Wouldn't you like to have the pantry and cupboard and table all brought together? The

A McDougall does not cost much—lasts a lifetime—is far the most convenient of all kitchen cabinets—has more labor saving features than any cabinet you ever saw. WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Workouts today with light scrimmages marked the Army eleven's program in preparation for its big game with the Navy Saturday afternoon. CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 24.—Only two members of Harvard's championship eleven were today suffering any ill effects of Saturday's victory over Yale. Bradlee was in the Stillman infirmary with a broken rib.
